To whom it may concern,

This letter is to express my interest in the job posted on Indeed.com and through your website for a junior front end developer. As you'll see, I am a recent graduate of the Austin Coding Academy full stack certificate program.

Building state-of-the-art, easy to use, user-friendly websites and applications has become a passion of mine and I am confident I would be an excellent addition to your organization. In addition to my knowledge base, I actively seek out new technologies and stay up-to-date on industry trends and advancements. This has allowed me to stay ahead of the curve and deliver exceptional work to my current employer.

I've attached a copy of my resume detailing my experience, along with links to websites and applications I've had the honor of working on. One site not listed on my resume was recently completed and can be found at Drafterr.com. This is a collaboration project completed through my current part-time web development position where I primarily contributed to the front end.

I can be reached anytime via my cell phone, 813-391-1719, by email at nickablack@gmail.com, or through my LinkedIn profile at linkedin.com/in/nick-a-black/.

Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to speaking with you about this opportunity.

Best regards,
